

Authors

Francesca Torlone, senior researcher at the University of Siena, searching on adult learning policies and measures, institutional and organisational learning, embedded learning in workplaces, prison adult learning. She has been coordinating international research groups and searched on organisational learning processes and informal embedded learning supporting individuals, teams, organisations as well as regional governments in their learning processes.

Paolo Federighi, international Expert in lifelong learning strategies and policies, for many years he has been consulting European institutions, national and regional Governments on how to improve education and training policies and coordinating international and comparative researches on adult learning systems, policies, and measures. He has been supervising and defining learning systems within different kinds of organisations and services focusing his research on how to support change management and organisational learning.

Julie Anne Boudreau held the Canada Research Chair in urbanity, insecurity, and political action from 2005-2015 at the Institut national de la recherche scientifique in Montreal. She is also Researcher at the Instituto de Geografía of the Universidad nacional autonoma de Mexico (UNAM). She founded TRYSACES, an international research group exploring youth transgressive practices and their impact of urban governance (www.tryspaces.org). Her most recent book is entitled Global Urban Politics: Informalization of the State (Polity Press, 2017).

Alessandra Romano is a Senior Researcher in the Education Department of the University of Siena. In both teaching and research, Dr. Romano's focus is in generating conditions for adults, groups and teams to learn, grow and develop the skillful means for collaborative inquiry and organizational

Educational Reflective Practices (ISSN 2240-7758, ISSN e 2279-9605), 2/2020

DOI: 10.3280/ERP2020-002010

Copyright © FrancoAngeli

N.B: Copia ad uso personale. È vietata la riproduzione (totale o parziale) dell'opera con qualsiasi mezzo effettuata e la sua messa a disposizione di terzi, sia in forma gratuita sia a pagamento.

change. Her particular strands of research are diversity and disability management, and experience-based methods, such as art-based and performative methodologies.

Stella Milani (Ph.D. in Sociology) is Researcher at University of Siena, where she teaches Sociology of the family. Her main areas of interest are migrations, gender and social inequalities, migration policies and racism. She is working on empirical researches on issues related to international migration, multi-level governance of integration (with a focus on local levels), life trajectories of migrants and minorities discrimination.

Marika Rullo, Ph.D. in Experimental Social Psychology at University of Rome “Sapienza”. She is Researcher at University of Siena, Department of Education, Humanities and Intercultural Communication where she teaches Social and General Psychology. Her main areas of interest are intra and intergroup relations and conflicts, with a specific focus on moral behaviours and social identity, and moral deviance management in intra and intergroup context.

Mario Giampaolo, Ph.D. is Assistant Professor in the Department of Educational Sciences at University of Siena. His research focuses are related to adult education, competence based education and informal learning technologies. He works as researcher in many European Erasmus Project and he is member of Italian society of Education. He is the author of essays and articles, among which the most significant is: How to personalize learning (Pensa Multimedia).

Martina Capaccioli, is a Ph.D. student in Learning and Innovation in Social and Work Contexts at University of Siena. She previously took a Master’s Degree in Educational science and pedagogical counseling at the University of Siena, with a thesis entitled “The multiculturalization of organizations: the case of the University of Siena”. Her research interests focus on the development of innovative and learning trajectories in contexts with a high multiethnic rate, with particular attention to the construct of diversity applied to consumption and commercial practices.

Zineb Benalla, is an international expert in CT, P/CVE and Peace Building who spent years working in the field in violent extremism hotspots in the Maghreb, Sahel, and the Middle East. She is a lecturer of Rethinking Counter Terrorism in Africa: Lessons in Prevention at the Intersession Unit at Alkhawayan University. She was nominated for the international award as a woman of courage in Morocco for her work in the field in the Sahel. She was also the inaugural recipient of the international Studies Association Peace studies section and Kroc Institute for International Peace Studies Global South Award 2020 for her research and work on Gender and Preventing Violent extremism in the Maghreb and Sahel. She studied international studies, International Law and Terrorism Studies in Morocco, the US and the UK. She lived and worked in the five continents in different multi ethnic and diverse environments.

Jesús Miguel Flores Vivar journalist, researcher, and professor in Journalism and New Media at the Complutense of Madrid University. He's author of articles and books in Multimedia Technologies, Media Ecology and Digital Journalism. He's Invited speaker and visiting professor at international universities. He's BA and PhD in Journalism, specialized in cyberjournalism.

Carlo Orefice is Associate Professor in General and Social Pedagogy at the Department of Education, Humanities and Intercultural Communication (University of Siena). PHD in Anthropological Sciences, his current research and teaching activities are focused on Adult Education and Pedagogy of care, with special emphasis on anthropologies of the body and experiences of illness.

He has published numerous works, including: Lo studio della cura educativa in un'ottica complessa (PensaMultimedia 2020); Good Health, Quality Education, Sustainable Communities, Human Rights. The scientific contribution of Italian UNESCO Chairs and partners to SDGs 2030 (con J-E. Baños, F. Bianchi, S. Costantini; FUP 2019); The role of humanities in the teaching of medical students (con J-E. Baños; Esteve 2018).

Claudio Melacarne, Ph.D, is Associate Professor of Social Pedagogy at University of Siena. He is interested in studying professional development processes in organizations using educational and training research methodologies. He is Co-director of the international journal Educational Reflective Practices. He work as a consultant in public and private companies. He currently teaches Foundation of Social Pedagogy and Methodologies of Educational Research and Training.

Farhad Khosrokhavar is Professor at the École des Hautes Études en sciences sociales (Paris, France) and Director of the Observatoire de la radicalization at the Maison des sciences de l'homme. His research activities concern Islam in France and in Europe, with a specific focus on its radical forms, Arab revolutions of 2010-2011 and contemporary Iran.

Francesca Bianchi is Associate professor in Sociology at the University of Siena. She has taken part in several studies and researches concerning social and cultural transformations, continuing vocational training and guidance (with ISFOL Rome, Carlo Cattaneo Institute of Bologna, MTI of Boston). She has been involved, as Italian expert in social and education fields, in the European network COST 13 Working group n. 4 “Youth employment/unemployment”, Action Changing labour market, welfare policies and citizenship. In recent years she has been particularly studying the social interaction and the new forms of sociality and participation in everyday life, taking part to several international conferences organized by ESPAnet, European Network for Housing Research. In 2015 she was visiting researcher in Tours, “Cités, TERritoires, Environnement et Sociétés” Unité de Recherche CITERES, François Rabelais University, Tours and in 2018 visiting professor in Paris Nanterre, Centre de Recherche sur l’Habitat (CRH), Laboratoire LAVUE. She published several books and articles on national and international reviews.

Nicolina Bosco, Ph.D. in Educational Sciences, is a Researcher in Didactics and Special Pedagogy at the Department of Education, Human Sciences and Intercultural Communication, University of Siena. Her research interests focus on multiculturalism and radicalization in life and school contexts, inclusion and social marginalisation.

She presented her research in national and international journals and in several conferences in Italy and abroad. She carried out study and research experiences at the Université Diderot Paris 7 (Paris, France) and at the Georgetown University (Washington, D. C., USA) where she improved her competences on research methodology. She is currently involved in an inter-university multidisciplinary research project entitled “F.O.R.w.A.R.D. Training, Research, and Development of “community based” strategies to prevent radicalization and support integration”.

Maurizio Ambrosini is professor of Sociology of Migration at the University of Milan, Department of Social and Political Sciences, chargé d’enseignement at the University of Nice-Sophia Antipolis (France) and gives a course at the Italian campus of the Stanford University in Florence. He is the responsible of the Italian unit of the European research project MAGYC (H2020) on the governance of immigration and asylum in Europe. He is also the editor of the journal Mondi Migranti, and the Director of the Italian Summer School of Sociology of Migrations, in Genoa, and member of the National Council of Economy and Labour (CNEL). His handbook, Sociologia delle migrazioni (2020, 3rd edition), has been adopted as the textbook in many Italian universities. In English he has published Irregular Migration and Invisible Welfare (Palgrave, 2013) and Irregular Immigration in Southern Europe. Actors, Dynamics and Governance (Palgrave, 2018). His articles have been published on several leading international journals. Among them, Ethnic and Racial Studies, Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies, International Migration, International Journal of Migration and Law, Sociology, Migration Letters. maurizio.ambrosini@unimi.it ORCID: 0000-0003-1788-8686.